burg, it is proper that you sh.0
a declaration of war against S^*r<3

The Duke of Reggio will on the march to Berlin. June 1st, Neumarkt: (To Caulaincourt.) I have than the one sent at 3 A. M. *
. . .
saddle to advance along the Einsci
,
from you there. I want to be ii"*-*oir the orders go out, on both sides, f °r **
You must see how important i"t formation, as if there should no't
>•
tilities, military dispositions miist 1
«
I still urge you to try for a direcrt
i'K<
peace, a solid peace, but on honoxi*

Bubna has reached Liegnitz ; lie* lw* ^ Duke of Bassano. The House of A»t*.tr
what exacting; we must be ready i ***"

2d. (To General Clarke.) Tl*5« tide of my victories. I decided 'to sons : my lack of cavalry, which. ;prc* v t» « « 1 *» I blows, and the hostile attitude of -A "s|« in the most friendly, tender, I n»I|,*lst * mental terms, actually presumoH t*» f*»t< the army it has concentrated a/t I>r*%tf »» matia and Istria, and even whtfx't li«*  t«r It demands, further, the left baml-c !" 1 1 burg, and even one half of the <3rrm,if I> leaving the other half to Prussia.